3. Why a notary?

It is almost always the case that you have been asked to see a notary because you have a document that needs to be used abroad. Seeing a notary is never a mere rubber-stamping exercise. The international duty of a Notary involves a high standard of care. This is not only towards the client but also to the transaction as a whole i.e. to anyone who may rely on the document and to the relevant Governments, authorities or officials in other countries. These parties are entitled to assume that a notary will ensure full compliance with the relevant requirements both here and abroad; and to rely on the notary's register and records. Great care is essential at every stage to minimise the risks of errors, omissions, alterations, fraud, forgery, money laundering, the use of false identity, and so on.

4. Typical stages of a notarial transaction

4.1 Each notarial matter is different, and the requirements and timescales will vary greatly depending on whether the client in question is a private individual or a company, partnership etc. and in particular, whether other relevant third parties would have to be involved in the transaction (such as the Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office, legalisation agents, translating agencies, lawyers and professional advisors in other jurisdictions, couriers, etc.) meaning that their processing times would also have to be taken into account.

4.2 Some of the typical key stages are likely to include:

- 4.2.1 receiving and reviewing the documents to be notarised together with any instructions you may have received;
- 4.2.2 liaising with your legal advisors or other bodies to obtain the necessary documentation to deal with the document (e.g. information from Companies House or foreign

- 4.2.3 checking the identity, capacity and authority of the person who is to sign the document;
- 4.2.4 if a document is to be certified, checking with the issuing authorities that the document/award is genuine. In the case of academic awards, this would entail checking with the appropriate academic institutions;
- 4.2.5 meeting with the signatory to verify their identity and to ascertain that they understand what they are signing and that they are doing so of their own free will and ensuring that the document is executed correctly;
- 4.2.6 drafting and affixing or endorsing a notarial certificate to the document;
- 4.2.7 arranging for the legalisation of the document as appropriate; and
